So I'm a 12-year-old boy who plays this game and I think it's a lot of fun because you can complete levels with obstacles and it's a lot of fun, but what I would like to bring up is an ad. I get it, all games want ads. But there are not many ads when you don't level up there should be like a 10-20 second ad! So I would just like the game developer not to put as much Thanks! My son (7) loves these games & is really good at them. We have a number of games by this developer. I give away this particular 2-star BC game if the highly inappropriate pop-up ad that appears. If this game is rated age 4+, then pop-up ads should be appropriate for this age group. The ad depicts a man and a woman in bed, a woman in a bra, but still very sexy & another woman who walks into a room catching them. The ad mentions something about finding singles easily for free. The X in the top right corner to close the ad won't actually close it for about 30 seconds, so my son looks at this wildly inappropriate picture and messages several times over a long period of time (for his age). I understand that I can pay an extra 1.99 not to have pop-up ads in the game, but I'm not going to do that. I'm more inclined to just erase the game completely & find something more suitable. Hi, thank you for bringing this to our attention. We will contact the company that provides these ads and make sure that this situation does not happen again. Alternatively, please contact us at support@boombit.com. We will provide additional assistance. Sincerely, to play with the game support team I really enjoyed this game. The scenery is great and it's fun to drive the snow. The only problem with it is that the vehicles don't have headlights. About half of the missions are in the dark. Most of them I could still see where I was going, but a few places, like next to the building, I had to guess where to go. Still one of the best driving games I've played and is worth getting.
